

I support the ability to retain mobile telephone numbers when changing telephone firms. There is no good reason to tie up another telephone number due to the change. If people want a new number then they should be allowed.